Kentucky Alliance, To The Southern Alliance.

BRETHREN: Now there is really nothing in the way of the final triumph of Alliance principles, only one thing, a name, and all are heartily tired of it, except the party bosses and office holders. That name is Democrat.

BRETHREN: What does a name profit you? Certainly nothing without principles and zealous actions.

BRETHREN: We don't ask you to give up any principle that you may think is right and just; but for harmony, peace, success and the good of the order everywhere; we do ask you as a band of brothers to throw the name Democrat to damn nation or anywhere else and be true Alliance men in deed and truth. And why not? Are you going to keep the Alliance in confusion, and its principles in jeopardy for a name; and that name held by the enemies of the Alliance.

Our Republican brethren of the Alliance North has done so where any success was accomplished at all. We therefore ask you as Alliance men to discard the name Democrat and Republican. And why not? You can't play both. We have some members here who want to vote the Democratic ticket, but they are hard stock, such as you will find in all localities. The Alliance was never intended to perpetuate either the Democratic or Republican parties, but to accomplish certain reforms in both State and National Legislation.

Has the Democrat and Republican leaders endorsed the Alliance platform? These leaders are the two parties, no legislation can be had without their consent, and both radically opposed to the Alliance principles. These leaders won't even promise you free coinage of silver. While a large majority of the people in every State is in favor of it.

BRETHREN: We don't want to hear no more of Alliance Democrats, or Alliance Republicans. Such expressions are too silly to be uttered by men of sense. Moreover, brethren, just as long as you keep up the Democratic party South, just so long you help to keep up the Republican party North. But as soon as you drop the old party names and assume the name Alliance in all political action, all confusion, and your strongest opposition, including the race question ceases. For then the great mass of the Republicans and negroes will unite with you in the Alliance organization, and all will be harmonious, prosperous and success doubly assured.

BRETHREN: Will you do it? Remember this appeal for the success of our order, comes from Democratic Kentucky, and by one formerly a Democrat, but now an Alliance man in principle, and in all that the words imply. I sent our order sufficient within itself for all purposes without a foreign name. It undoubtedly is. I would feel insulted to be called a Democrat, or Republican. Here in Kentucky the Alliance is 150,000 strong, and nearly every county has Alliance candidates for the Legislature. The independent move was inaugurated before the Cincinnati conference met, and of course the policy there laid down is heartily endorsed. And now we have a full State ticket of Alliance men, headed by a noble and worthy farmer, Col. Barbour, of Jefferson county, for Governor. Judge Guffy, the Alliance candidate for State's Attorney, has opened the canvass with one of his powerful and convincing speeches before a large and enthusiastic meeting. All the candidates are amongst the best men in the State. Kentucky is going to elect an Alliance Governor, and a large majority of members to the Legislature. The Alliance candidate has to defeat a very able and accomplished Attorney, but an old broken down politician, put out by Wall street bosses and railroad magnates, who has been hauling the people free of charge to his meetings. Of course any good farmer can defeat such a candidate. Oh! what a change for Kentucky. She can then stand side by side of bleeding Kansas, and while shaking hands across the bloody chasm, great tears of joy will course the cheek of all true lovers of liberty and our country.

BRETHREN: I need not tell you that our cause is just and our oppression much greater than that of our forefathers when they threw the tea overboard in Boston Harbor.

BRETHREN: Lay off your Democratic and Republican cloak, act honest with each other, and be true to Alliance principles. Will you do it?

SOME GLARING INCONSISTENCIES.

Section 164 fixes the rate which counties and towns may levy for municipal purposes; and provides that any indebtedness created in excess shall be void.

Section 166 provides that when any county, city or town is authorized to contract an indebtedness it shall, at the same time be required to provide for a sinking fund for its redemption.

Section 187 provides that the General purposes of any county, city, town or other municipal corporation, but may, by general laws, confer to the proper authorities thereof the power to assess and collect such taxes. In this section there is no limitation whatever.

Does it mean that in addition to the fifty cents on the dollar authorized to be raised by the county of Jefferson in any one year, the Legislature may authorize by general laws all of the counties to contract an indebtedness for a public work which is desired alone by Jefferson?

Suppose the county of Jefferson asks the General Assembly for authority to contract an indebtedness of $500,000 for the building of a Court House; as the grant of authority must be by a general law, then every county in Kentucky would have the right to build a Court House at the same cost, and tax the people accordingly.

The Legislature may not single out Jefferson County and confer on its authorities the right to build a Court House. The framers of the Constitution have forbidden that, and while it is not probable that every county in the State would avail itself of the right conferred on Jefferson, the right and power would be perfected in all in supplying the wants of one, and where there is power there is a tendency to exercise it.

The convention has overdone the thing in its attempt to abolish the Legislature, which is, as Delegate Buckner said in his protest against the radicals, "the body expressing the sovereign will of the people."

Special privileges are to be condemned; as for example the special privilege granted to railroads in vesting the Legislature with the power to regulate taxation as to them while denying it to the people; but local legislation authorizing the building of Court Houses, roads or other improvements, is not special.

There is a glaring inconsistency between the provisions fixing the rate municipalities may levy, and limiting them to that sum, and the 187th Section which evidently contemplates a grant of authority to the Legislature to authorize the contracting of indebtedness for any purpose. And out of the inconsistency and the insane attempt to provide for the needs of localities by laws applicable to the entire state confusion and unnecessary expense to the public must come.—Covington Commonwealth.

A Hint to Young Farmers.

In an interesting paper on technical education in agriculture, reprinted from the journal of the Royal Agricultural Society, Dr. W. Freeman says: "Those interested in the welfare of any young agriculturist should take care that in his school days the study of mathematics is not ignored. The time devoted to acquiring proficiency in arithmetic, geometry, measurement, and the elements of algebra and trigonometry—the latter really indispensable in the case of surveying—will never be regretted."—From Nature.

A Success.

Royal Germetuer is established as a remarkable success. Thousands of testimonials attest its virtue. Many of these are given by men and women of the highest standing in the most honored walks of life.

In the midst of a flourishing and rapidly increasing business, the price is reduced from $1.50 to $1 per bottle. This is done in the interest of those whose circumstances in life deter them from paying the higher price. The rich will buy it at any price, but the managers feel that a medicine which possesses such wonderful powers should be placed within the reach of the poor. Many have said that Germetuer was the cheapest medicine on the market. When it is remembered that a bottle of Germetuer makes a gallon of medicine ready for use, it is certainly cheaper than ordinary medicine in a bulk, and when the powers of the medicine are taken into account, the price amounts to almost nothing.

Germetuer is the coming success that has already come. Ask your druggist for it, and if he cannot supply you write to E. M. Coleman, General Representative, Louisville Ky.. Send for book containing particulars and history of wonderful cures.

GIVING GARTERS THE GO BY.

The Coming Fad for the Adoption of Tights—Jeweled Garter Buckles Made Over.

It is reported in high society circles that there are almost daily converts to the new mode of dressing, that is the wearing of tights. It is claimed that they tend to develop any natural gracefulness that a woman may possess and they are certainly comfortable. When first introduced they could only be obtained in silk; but now lisle thread and cotton tights can be purchased at almost any large shop. It is sometimes quite amusing to watch a woman laying in her first suit. She doesn't want to be taken for a ballet dancer, and invariably has some reason which she gives for the purchase, which is generally anything rather than that she intends wearing them herself. The wearing of these tights does away with that ancient and useful article, the garter, which is one of the arguments used by the advocates of tights. Only a day or two ago a pretty miss brought into a goldsmith's a pair of jeweled garter buckles, which were to be made over into some other form of ornament.

KISSING IS BECOMING DANGEROUS.

St. JOSEPH, Mo., June 17.—Mrs. Ella Churchill complained to the Board of Police Commissioners to-day that last night Patrolman Joseph Martin fired at her daughter's lover while he was in the act of kissing her daughter. Mrs. Churchill avers that her daughter is engaged to the young man, and if he wants to kiss her he ought to be allowed to do so. The policeman claims that he saw only the man in the dark and thought he was a burglar.—From the Globe-Democrat.
